

What is Aridient?

Aridient a software company that delivers the robust and modern web and mobile development operating in China, Singapore and Malaysia and a combined management and technical experience of more than 20 year, backed and qualified software engineers and professionals, Aridient is well poised to carry out simple software development work to progressive and complex deployment ensuring that investment in its services, solutions and products will yield long term positive and measurable results for client's organization. The founder of Aridient is Engskk who lives in Singapore.